

St. Louis Symphony Orchestra by the Numbers

The St. Louis Symphony Orchestra is a cornerstone of the St. Louis community and one of the nation's most exciting, innovative, and enduring orchestras. With the opening of the Jack C. Taylor Music Center in 2025, the SLSO has expanded its ability to connect with audiences, students, educators, and community members through performances, education programming, and community engagement.

147 seasons—the second oldest major orchestra in the country

250+ concerts and events annually

225,000+ people experienced the SLSO live at venues across the region

420,000+ listeners reached through public media partnerships

63 million social media impressions

200,000+ students and 1,000+ teachers engaged through in-person and digital programming

90+ musicians

120+ Symphony Chorus members

90+ IN UNISON Chorus members

110+ Youth Orchestra members

9 Grammy wins, 60 nominations

$38 million operating budget

$100 million+ in metro-wide economic activity generated each year

1,000+ jobs supported through the SLSO's economic impact

Stéphane Denève, The Joseph and Emily Rauh Pulitzer Music Director

ST. LOUIS
SYMPHONY
ORCHESTRA

STÉPHANE DENÈVE, MUSIC DIRECTOR

slso.org/impact

25
/ 26
146th Season